The Ugly Duckling.

By JAMES SPRAGUE.

Copyrighted, 1907, by P. C. Eastment.

There was a decided tendency among the scholars of the summer school to overlook little Miss Snell. But pretty Miss Biscoe defended her.

"She may be frumpy," she declared, "and I never saw such clothes, but she is nice when you know her."

Most of the scholars at the summer school were teachers, who were making up in the six weeks' course the deficiencies of early education or preparing for higher grades.

In winter little Miss Snell taught in a district school. Her summer school experience marked the first milestone of travel. Never before had she been out of her native township. Never before had she met such wonderful girls as these who came from the big cities, with all the daintiness of city gowning and city grooming.

At home Miss Snell had considered her one thick suit and two lawn dresses a sufficient and elegant wardrobe, especially as it was supplemented by six white waists, two of which were embroidered by her own hands, one in a prim daisy pattern and one with chrysanthemums.

At the summer school, however, even the embroidered waists seemed inadequate as compared to Miss Biscoe's delicate lingerie blouses, with their short sleeves and frilly effects. Miss Snell's waists had linen cuffs and stiff collars, which emphasized the plainness of her little, pointed face, her straight banded hair, her spare, girlish figure.

"It's too bad," Miss Biscoe said the night of the first reception given by the faculty to the summer school scholars. "It's too bad. I don't believe she is having a good time. You go over and talk to her."

"You are trying to get rid of me," Owen Marvin complained. He was principal of a high school at home and was unmarried. He had never seen a girl quite so knowing and engaging as Miss Biscoe, and he was beginning to think seriously of asking her to marry him.

"No, I am not," Miss Biscoe's blue eyes sparkled. "But I hate to see any one look so lonely as that poor little thing. Come on." And she swept away, all her pink chiffon frills a-flutter, and there was nothing for him to do but to follow.

Miss Snell brightened up as they came toward her. She thought she had never seen anything so pretty as Miss Biscoe. "You look like a pink rose," she said as Miss Biscoe dropped into a big chair beside her and introduced Owen Marvin.

"He lives in the next town to you," Miss Biscoe explained, "and I think you ought to know each other."

"Oh," said little Miss Snell, blushing, "I have heard of you so often, Mr. Marvin."

He had not heard of her, but he murmured polite acknowledgments. Miss Biscoe slipped away presently, and he found himself rather enjoying the rapt attention with which this mouse of a girl accepted all his statements. Miss Biscoe had a way of making him feel uncouth and clumsy, but to Miss Snell be towered as a giant of intellect, and she seemed to hang upon his words.

They ate their ice cream together, and it was not until Miss Biscoe came back, radiant and rosy, that he discovered that Miss Snell was exceedingly unattractive in appearance.

"Why don't she dress herself right?" he asked, with a decided sense of irritation, as he took Miss Biscoe home.

"Oh, you men!" smiled Miss Biscoe as they came to Divinity hall, which in summer served as the women's dormitory. "Oh, you men! You make us so frivolous!"

"Well," he said, "why can't she have some things like this," and he touched a little awkwardly the filmy laces of Miss Biscoe's wrap.

Miss Biscoe drew back. "Go way, little body," she said. "I'll see you in the morning." And away she ran in the moonlight.

"And he needn't think he is going to make love to me," she confided to Miss Murray, who roomed with her, "because I am engaged already."

"You're a flirt," Miss Murray told her.

"No," Miss Biscoe said, "but he thinks so much of himself, and I like to tease him."

"And he will fall in love, and then what?" probed Miss Murray.

"Hum!" mused Miss Biscoe, who was brushing her pretty hair. "I really ought to find him another girl, Clara, and switch him off, you know."

"Well, you won't," prophesied Miss Murray. "You will just lead him on."

But the next morning Miss Biscoe announced, "I thought of marrying him to you, Clara, but I knew you would never give up your career for any man, and so I have decided to hand him over to little Miss Snell."

Miss Murray, who was making their morning coffee over an alcohol lamp, turned around quickly. "What," she said, "that frumpy little thing!"

"It's her clothes," Miss Biscoe explained. "You wait, Clara. I'm going to play fairy godmother. I owe her something anyhow. When you were away last week and I had one of my splitting headaches she came in and was as sweet as she could be. She took care of me like a born nurse, and I turned everybody else out. You know what a bear I am when I have a headache, Clara."

"Indeed I do," said Miss Murray feelingly.

"Well, she didn't seem to mind. She hung over me and sat up with me, and it was when I made her put on my blue silk dressing gown and she had her hair down that I discovered that she was pretty."

"I can't imagine it," said Miss Murray.

"She is. And she has such a pretty, attentive way of listening. And she has been awfully left out by the other girls here, and I am going to take her in hand."

It required great tact for Miss Biscoe to introduce the subject of dress to Miss Snell. But once done she found an adoring proselyte.

"Oh, I have always wanted to look nice," poor little Miss Snell said, "and I have lived so far away from everything, and my people would insist upon dressing me as they liked things, and I know I am different, and I think it is dear of you to help me."

"Question one," said Miss Biscoe. "Can you afford to spend any money on new things?"

Then it developed that Miss Snell was not poor. She taught because life on her father's farm would have been deadly in its monotony otherwise. But her father never limited her expenditures.

"Oh, joy!" murmured Miss Biscoe. "I'll dress you up, little lady, until you won't know yourself. And your first appearance shall be the next reception."

The blushes flamed into Miss Snell's cheeks.

"If you will look like that next Friday he will love you on the spot, my dear."

"It is you he loves," whispered little Miss Snell, "and he is charming, and I think you will be a wonderful couple."

"No, we won't," said Miss Biscoe decidedly. "I'm going to marry a doctor who lives in New York, and he is the dearest fellow in the world."

The next Friday Owen Marvin, wandering a little disconsolately through the empty rooms of the reception hall, came upon a little figure in white. His footsteps made no sound on the thick carpet, and unobserved he studied her. She wore a charming white net gown. Her fair, fluffy hair was twisted about her head in a shining coronet, and as she stood on the tips of her white slippered toes and surveyed herself in the big mirror she was dainty, exquisite.

"I beg pardon," Owen apologized as she turned and caught sight of him, and then he said quickly, "Why, it's Miss Snell."

She came forward, blushing. "Don't you think my gown is pretty?" she asked. "Miss Biscoe told me where to send for it, and she fixed my hair. Isn't she a dear?"

But he did not join in her enthusiasm.

"She's something of a coquette," he said, "and very fond of admiration."

"Every girl is fond of admiration," Miss Snell defended, all pink and white. "Don't you think so?"

He liked the deference of her manner. Miss Biscoe that afternoon had told him of her engagement, and his pride was hurt. He decided that Miss Snell appreciated him and that she was pretty.

He walked with her through the fast filling rooms. Admiring glances followed them. It was not easy for the teachers to understand the transformation of Miss Snell, and Miss Biscoe was glowing.

"Isn't she a success?" she said to Miss Murray. "I told you she was pretty. You can't always tell when your ugly ducklings are going to turn out to be swans, my dear. And clothes make such a difference."

"Her first name is Lily," she told Marvin as they stood together for a moment, while Miss Snell talked to an astonished professor of English who had never noticed her socially before. "Don't you think it suits her?"

"Yes," said Marvin and went over and took Miss Snell away from the professor of English,

"He needn't think I am going to let you talk to him all the evening," he told Miss Snell, with an air of proprietorship, and she preened herself like a little white dove as she swept through the room by the side of her handsome cavalier and out upon the moonlighted campus.

"May I call you Lily?" he asked as they stood under the elms.

"Oh, who told you that my name was Lily?" she asked.

"Miss Biscoe."

"Isn't she a dear?"

"You are dearer," he said as the moon went behind a cloud.

"Oh!" palpitated the floating vision in white.

"And I love you," said Marvin majestically, and there in the shadowy dimness he bent and kissed her.

Old Sweet Springs.

In the mountains of West Virginia, which are not as well known to the country at large as they deserve to be, are many lovely spots that are summer resorts as well as beautiful resting places in spring and fall. Old Sweet Springs is such a place. It is far above the sea level, and there has been a hotel there ever since 1792. George and Martha Washington spent the summer of 1797 there, and there Jerome Bonaparte met Elizabeth Patterson. There, too, is still standing the Lewis cottage, said to have been the first house erected west of the Alleghanies. There is a golf course at Old Sweet Springs, which is said to be very fine. Anyway, there is a mint patch by the brook. The springs themselves are believed to cure nearly everything, including dandruff. Without vouching for this latter fact, doubtless if you play golf every day without a hat they will help.—Travel Magazine

THE FRIGATE PELICAN.

It Is a Small Bird With an Enormous Stretch of Wing.

The frigate pelican, or man-of-war bird, is usually found between the tropics. Although when stripped of its feathers it is hardly larger than a pigeon, yet no man can touch at the same time the tips of its extended wings. The long wing bones are exceedingly light, and the whole apparatus of air cells is extremely developed, so that its real weight is very trifling. It flies at a great height above the water and from that elevation pounces down on fish, especially preferring the poor, persecuted flying fish for its prey.

Under the throat of the frigate pelican is a large pouch of a deep red color, which can be distended with air at the pleasure of the bird. The pouch is larger and of a more brilliant red in the male than in his consort, and the general plumage of the female is not so bright as that of the male.

Although its swiftness of wing and general activity enable it to snatch a fish from the surface of the water or to pounce upon the flying fish before it can again seek the protection of its native element, yet it too often uses its powers in robbing other birds of their lawful prey. It is enabled in some mysterious way to find its way home by night, even though it may be 400 or 500 miles from land. The length of the male bird is three feet and the expanse of wing eight feet.

AN OLD TIME DRINK.

Refreshing Switchel and the Way It Used to Be Made.

They don't make it nowadays—not mostly. But they used to make it years ago, and how good it was! The corn lot had to be cultivated, and it was a long way from the house, and it was very hot up there on the hillside. When they loaded the cultivator and the hoes and spades on the stone boat and hitched the two horses to that dry ground vessel, they stowed away as part of the cargo a big stone jug. And when the corn lot was reached the jug was stowed away in a shady fence corner under the butternut tree and covered over with grass to keep it cool. What was in the jug? Switchel. It was made of vinegar, molasses, ginger and water. The water was drawn from the spring beside the kitchen and was as cold as ice could have made it. And the stone jug kept it cold. The vinegar gave it a pleasant acidity, the ginger a little "tang"—that's what they called it up in "the country"—and the molasses just sweetened it a bit. And how good it was to go over into the fence corner and take a few swallows out of that jug of switchel!

Come on, let's go and get a glass of ice cream soda. It will be somewhere about the hundredth part as good as a draft of switchel out of that stone jug in the fence corner in the corn lot up in the country.—Utica Observer.

She Was a Stayer.

One of the longest visits on record is one that was made by a woman in the south. Perhaps such a thing could not have happened in a less hospitable part of the country. The visitor was one of those most unfortunate waifs and strays of the country—a refined woman with no home of her own. That was in the days when women were expected to be cared for and not go out into the world to look out for themselves. This woman went one day to spend the day with a friend, and she remained for twenty-five years. She outlived the father and mother of the family, took their places to some extent in the hearts of the children, and for all those years she lived there happy and beloved and giving in return for her home those services which cannot be hired.—Exchange.

Sam Houston on Education.

One of the provisions in the will of General Sam Houston read:

"My will is that my sons should receive solid and useful education and that no portion of their time may be devoted to the study of abstract science. I greatly desire that they may possess a thorough knowledge of the English language, with a good knowledge of the Latin language. I request that they be instructed in the Holy Scriptures and next to these that they be rendered thorough in a knowledge of geography and history. I wish my sons early taught an entire contempt for novels and light reading."—Fort Worth Telegram.

Stands Still.

"Your friend, Miss Passay, has become quite chummy with Miss Newcombe. I don't suppose there's much difference in their ages."

"I can't answer for Miss Newcombe, but there isn't any difference in Miss Passay's age. She has been twenty-one for the past ten years to my knowledge."—Philadelphia Press.

Sweet Joy.

"I was just going to ask you to subscribe to this purse for Jibbles' widow when I happened to remember that he was your worst enemy."

"I'll be delighted to subscribe. Just think how it will grind him wherever he is."—Cleveland Leader.

Different Viewpoints.

"One woman," remarked the mere man, "is just as good as another—if not better."

"And one man," rejoined the fair widow, "is just as bad as another—if not worse."—Chicago News.

Plenty of Them.

Mrs. Chatterton—I always weigh my words before speaking. Mr. Chatterton—Well, my dear, no one can accuse you of giving short weight.—Exchange.

THE COW'S HORN.

Various Ways in Which It Is Made Useful by Man.

Have you any conception of how useful that horn is to us? Scientifically it is known as a combination of phosphate of lime, gelatin and albumen, and, like all nature's products, the ingredients are in the right proportion to make the article useful to man as well as to the animal that bears it.

The lime makes the horn hard, but there is just enough lime to make it hard without making it brittle, and there is just enough gelatin to make the horn easy to cut and shape. The core of the horn is bone, and to get that out the horn is soaked in water for several weeks. When the core is taken out it is ground up and made into crucibles which are used for melting gold and silver in.

The outer end of the horn is hard and solid, and that is used for making knife handles and other things. The hollow part of the horn is soaked for half an hour or so in boiling water, when it becomes soft and may easily be split with a knife.

It is then spread out flat and put between iron plates. There was a time when these horn plates were made very thin by hard pressure and used in windows and lanterns as we now use glass. They may be made quite translucent.

When the horn is heated it may be molded into almost any desired form. That is the way knife handles, buttons and other articles are made.—Chicago News.

ENGLISH STORIES.

Dean Stanley once went late to dinner with his collar flapping. His hostess ventured to ask him if he knew. "Oh, yes," answered the dean. "Do you mind?" "Not at all," said the lady. "Then I don't mind, either. The button dropped off while I was dressing." And the dean continued his conversation.

Rev. W. H. Tuckwell is responsible for the history of how an Oxford notable in the thirties got his nickname "Presence of Mind" Smith. He went boating with a friend and returned alone and was asked what had become of his companion. He explained that his friend had fallen into the Thames, "and if I had not with great presence of mind hit him on the head with a boat hook the both of us would have been drowned."

The late Joseph Joachim was a great favorite in London and for more than sixty years rarely missed a season there. A certain nobleman told him that he was going to St. James' hall to hear him, and Joachim later asked him if he had found it tedious. "Not at all," serenely answered the titled personage. "I enjoyed myself immensely. I did not recognize you at first under your disguise as a nigger, but later I laughed all the more." The nobleman had strolled by mistake into a minstrel show instead of the large concert hall.

A Nice Calculation.

A Flemish gentleman conceived the idea that he would only live a certain time, so he made a nice calculation of his fortune, which he so apportioned as to last just the same period as he guessed his life would extend to. Strangely enough, his calculations came correct to the letter, for he died punctually at the time he had previously reckoned. He had so far exhausted his estate that after his debts had been discharged a solitary pair of slippers represented the entire property he left. His relatives buried him, and a representation of the slippers was carved on the tomb. Today in a churchyard at Amsterdam his grave may be seen, the only inscription on the stone being two Flemish words, "Effen Nyt" (i. e., "Exactly").

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea. Belching of sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

What Millionaire Cares for Sympathy?

WE READ with no surprise of the vicissitudes of the average man in private and public life, but the trials of the millionaire affect us but little, for from childhood we have cultivated the idea that in the possession of money there is contentment and a strong barrier from the ruthless knocks of a cold world.

Daily the records disprove our childhood delusion and remind us that money does not strengthen the frailties of man nor always ensure him "an immunity bath," for Fate's is a stern decree. Millionaire Talbot was not, for instance, spared the harsh disclosures of the divorce court. Even his correspondence, which should have been most sacred, was thrown on the journalistic screen and labeled "the love letters of a millionaire." His money got him neither love nor happiness nor even obscurity. It served only to make him a pronounced figure in the courts, where poor men's hearts and their disappointments are at least spared notoriety, but for him all his distress was accentuated and expatiated on by a curious public and a pitiless press. So the divorce mill grinds hard for the millionaire. He cannot count upon domestic bliss any more than the humble ones. A recent Marin county divorce proceeding is evidence also of this very thing. Here the man in the case was interested in sociological problems and would devote his wealth to the bettering of the poor and charity institutions. He was not only rich but was willing to help his fellows with his wealth, but his ideals did not uplift him in the eyes of his wife, and so for them was pointed out but one course, "the parting of the ways" and that cruel notoriety.

Susceptible as they are to such misfortunes and differences rich men need not all "abandon hope," for in the case of Phelps Stokes, who married a factory girl and is devoting his money to the uplifting of the masses with all his fervor and all her sympathy to encourage, there is a contrasting picture of the happiness which has its origin in the heart with the bank roll as a valuable ally only.

In public life there are kindred examples of millionaires enmeshed in snares and bearing stamps from which their gold cannot free them. The public thinks they can stand the whips and scorn of contumely, forgetting that millionaires are flesh of their flesh, overlooking all else save the gold which it believes makes men impervious. The millionaire suffers, but he has few sympathizers, for the old belief is hard to overcome that money is a solace and protector, assuaging all trouble and moderating all unkindness.

What millionaire cares for sympathy? Too proud he may be to answer, but the call of conscience reaches the sensitive ear and the call should be answered by him who understands the mandate to "love thy neighbor," yea, even though he be a millionaire.

IF SONOMA could only get that talking machine factory we might make a record.

Rough House.

There was a lively scrimmage in the Romo Hotel bar-room last Saturday night. Unable to resist "the call of the wild" three of landlord Ambrosini's boarders who were lounging around the premises, assaulted Bert Stockwell and in the melee that followed Stockwell was roughly handled. Monday he swore out a warrant of arrest and had his assailants haled before Recorder Gottenberg. The examination took place Wednesday, W. F. Cowen of Santa Rosa being present to defend the accused. It appearing that landlord Ambrosini was somewhat of a peacemaker in the mix-up he was discharged from custody. The three guests, however, were fined $10 each for "butting in" and taking a hand in an affair which did not concern them

Pleasant Surprise.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Vera Buchan by her Sunday School class Wednesday evening, the occasion being her departure for Iowa next Monday. The little folks were pleasantly entertained by the amiable young hostess and before taking their departure presented her with a handsome souvenir silver spoon.

Hallowe'en Frolics.

The youth of the town engaged in the usual Hallowe'en frolics last Thursday night and signs, gates and things on the outside generally were badly mixed up by the frolicsome youth. In attempting to remove the sign from Eastland's drug store two of the merry-makers accidentally broke two large panes of glass, one in the side of the show window and the other in the glass door. This ended the fun for them. The next morning the two unfortunates waited upon Mr. Eastland, informed him of the mishap and had the damage repaired.

$100 REWARD $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a costitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Sprains.

S. A. Read, Cisco, Texas, writes, on March 11, 1901; "My wrist was sprained so badly by a fall that it was useless; and after using several remedies that failed to give relief, used Ballard's Snow Liniment and was cured. I earnestly recommend it to any one suffering from sprains."

A Most Worthy Article.

When an article has been on the market for years and gains friends every year, it is safe to call this medicine a worthy one. Such is Ballard's Hoarhound Syrup. It positively cures coughs and all pulmonary diseases. One of the best known merchants in Mobile, Ala., says "For five years my family has not been troubled with winter coughs. We owe this to Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I know it has saved my children from many sick spells."

CUT THIS OUT AND SAVE IT.

Says Many Persons Here Can be Made Happy Again by Using This.

There is so much rheumatism here in our neighborhood now that the following advice by an eminent authority, who writes for readers of a large Eastern daily paper, will be highly appreciated by those who suffer:

Get from any good pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Shake these well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime; also drink plenty of good water.

It is claimed that there are few victims of this dread and torturous disease who fail to find ready relief in this simple home-made mixture, and in most cases a permanent cure is the result.

This simple recipe is said to strengthen and cleanse the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys so that they can filter and strain from the blood and system the poisons, acids and waste matter, which cause not only rheumatism, but numerous other diseases. Every man or woman here who feels that their kidneys are not healthy and active, or who suffers from any urinary trouble whatever, should not hesitate to make up this mixture, as it is certain to do much good, and may save you from much misery and suffering after while.

Our home druggists say they will either supply the ingredients or mix the prescription ready to take if our readers ask them.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

THE ST. FRANCIS' CHURCH BENEFIT.

The Entertainment One of the Best and Most Generously Patronized of the Season

The musical and vaudeville entertainment given for the benefit of St. Francis' Church last Saturday evening was one of the best and most generously patronized affairs of the season.

The program was managed by Miss Mamye Kelly and Mrs L. V. Emparan, assisted by Miss Millie Richards. Many San Francisco artists were secured and together with local talent they furnished a show that would have done credit to professionals.

A. F. Medley opened the program with two baritone numbers, which were beautifully rendered. He was followed by Sad Sam Smith, a talented comedian, who brought down the house with his "stunts," and was recalled several times.

Miss Trainer, in "Love Me and the World is Mine" and "Bonnie Jean," was heard to great advantage, her beautiful voice winning the hearts of the audience and calling forth much applause.

One of the "classiest" numbers on the program was Madamoselle Carmer Abbot in "La Palonia," which she sang and danced in gorgeous costume. Madamoselle Abbot has a wonderful contralto voice and her grace and dash made her act the cleverest of the evening.

John W. Kelly and Master Geo. W. Tett in coon specialty were assisted by a bunch of pickaninnies and took the house by storm. Kelly, in black face, outclassed anything of the kind ever seen in the valley. The boy tenor, Master Tett, who is a little refuge, sang beautifully and was encored several times.

"The Flor de e'Oro" sextette, in which the following participated, was a very effective number: Messrs. Schleicher, Brookover and Harnett and Mesdames Head, Brookover and Miss M. Kelly. The ladies were fetchingly costumed and the dancing was very gracefully executed. The sextette was composed by Mr. Schleicher.

The Teddy girls, in their marching number, gave the grand finale Their khaki costumes and flags were very effective and the march, "The Grand Old Flag," was sung by Mr. Medley.

Miss M. Richards and Mrs. W. L. Murphy were the accompanists of the evening.

After the performanc there were refreshments and dancing.

Much credit is due to the ladies of the church for their hard work and excellent arrangements. A substantial sum was netted for the parish.

New Time Card.

The new time card of the Northwestern Paeific railroad went into effect last Sunday. It eliminates the extra train on Sundays and during the winter months there will be the usual morning and afternoon trains arriving and departing. The week day service will be the same if we except a slight change in the arrival and departure of trains. The morning train now leaves Sonoma at 6.28 instead of 6.23 as formerly. There is no change in the departure of the afternoon train, which leaves at 4.02, as usual. The morning train from San Francisco is now due here at 10 o'clock instead of 10.20 and the evening train at 7.15 instead of 7.17 as under the old schedule.

More Books for Library.

A number of our public-spirited citizens have clubbed together and will purchase sixty-five volumes from Rev. C. C. Cragin's library and present them to the free public library of this place. These books consist of history, biography, novels, etc., and will prove quite an acquisition to the literature of the library.

Educators Hospitably Entertained.

The new and artistic home of Mr. and Mrs. Watters was the scene of a pretty informal affair on Friday evening of last week when the teachers of the Sonoma schools and Superintendent and Mrs. Montgomory were entertained. The congenial company spent a delightful evening in conversation and informal discussion on things educational and literary, and before their leave-taking the gracious hostess served a delicious collation. The house is admirably adapted to entertaining and the Watters' intend to give similar affairs from time to time.

WILL WE HAVE WAR WITH JAPAN

Deme Gordenker Writes From Manila that He Thinks So.

Deme Gordenker, a graduate of the Sonoma High School and the University of California, who has been in the Philippine Islands ever since they were purchased from Spain by the United States, writes a long letter to his mother, Mrs. Olga Gordenker of Glen Ellen, in which he reviews things in the islands as they appear to him, and from which we are permitted to take a few extracts.

In discussing the problem of a war with Japan Mr. Gordenker, who is a very observing young man, writes:

"Most of us out here are convinced that war with Japan is inevitable. Though some think it will not come for several years, I myself am of the opinion it will start in the spring of next year. I will probably raise a volunteer company here in my own town. America is very poorly prepared for a struggle here in the Islands, but we will all have to do our best. Of course it will be chiefly a naval war and on the preparedness of our fleet lies the sure way to victory."

In writing about himself, Mr. Gordenker, who is the principal of an Industrial School near Manila, says:

"Music has become my chief recreation and interest in life." (He plays a violin. his first teacher being Hugh Maxwell, formerly of this place.) "I have a boat on the river, which is a big one flowing just in front of my house, and I row and swim a good deal."

THE PASSING OF A GOOD WOMAN.

Mrs. Mary Donahue Goes to Her Reward in the Presence of Nine Grown Children.

Mrs. Mary Donahue, a pioneer mother of the Sonoma Valley, after a long and useful life, passed to her final reward Tuesday morning.

The end was not unexpected, and when the noble mother passed away surrounding her bedside were grouped her nine grown children and an only sister, who came from far and near to be present at the passing in the old Embarcadero home.

Mrs. Donahue came to this valley a handsome and blushing bride nearly fifty years ago, and on September 9th, 1859, with her husband, the late Michael Donahue, located at the Embarcadero, where she continued to reside up to the day of her death. Here was born and raised nine sons and daughters, all of whom have attained their majority.

The children are Thomas and William Donahue of Portland, Oregon; Joseph Donahue, Napa; Park and Victor Donahue, Schellville; Charles and Robert Donahue, Mrs. Edward Burns and Mrs. Georgie Burns, San Francisco.

Mrs. Donahue is also survived by an only sister, Mrs. P. Gallagher of Nicasio, Marin county.

During a continuous residence of forty-eight years in this valley this noble woman, devoted mother and kind neighbor was beloved by all who knew her. Her whole life was an open book in which was written all those traits of character that go to make up a good woman in the full acceptation of the term.

Mrs. Donahue was born in Ireland and was aged 69 years five months and 29 days.

The funeral took place from the family homestead at Embarcadero yesterday morning and was largely attended.

Funeral services were held in St. Francis' church and Rev. Father Leahy preached an eloquent sermon over the bier of the departed.

Mrs. Donahue's remains now repose beside those of her late husband in the consecrated ground of the little Catholic cemetery of Sonoma.

The Congregational Church ladies are planning a grand Bazaar and New England supper for November 15th. *

Kicked by a Horse.

The little two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Silva of Schellville was kicked in the face by a horse last Sunday. The little fellow's lower jaw was badly fractured and several teeth knocked out. Dr. Leix attended the youngster's injuries, which consisted of a double fracture of the lower jaw, four front teeth knocked out of the upper jaw, also a piece of bone chipped from upper jaw. The bone was set and a plaster cast applied to the jaw. Monday morning Dr. Leix took the little patient to San Francisco for consultation and the bone was wired in three places. The little chap is now doing well and if blood poisoning does not set in he will have completely recovered in five or six weeks without disfigurement.

Passing of Mrs. Amelia Nolting.

Mrs Amelia Nolting, well-known in this place and a prominent Native Daughter, passed away at her home in Alameda last Monday. The deceased had long been ailing, the immediate cause of death being Addison's complaint. Mrs. Nolting is survived a sister, two brothers and an only daughter, Mrs. S. A. Eklund (nee Schiller.)

Mrs. Nolting was born in San Francisco and was aged 52 years and 10 months.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning from St. James Church, where a solemn mass for the repose of her soul was celebrated. The interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery, San Francisco.

Mrs. Richards' Entertains.

Mrs. Theodor Richards of the Agua Caliente Springs Hotel, who had already done more than her share toward making the recent entertainment and social in aid of St. Francis' Church a success, entertained at dinner last Sunday a party of eighteen who took a leading part in the affair. A sumptuous spread was served in the dining room of the hotel to which ample justice was done by her jolly guests and co-workers in a good cause. The gracious hostess was the recipient of many and well deserved compliments on this occasion.

Wise Talks by the Office Boy.

Say, fellows, I've hired out to help run the Raymond Bros. store (Racket Store.) I start in as basement boy. I have to unpack the new goods, keep the show cases filled, sweep out, clean windows, dust, run errands, besides weighing and delivering all packages to the express and post offices and attend to the local deliveries. I also have to help write letters and get up ads for the newspapers, but I'm not worrying about the brain power I throw in with my services. It's the leg power I'm thinking of.

Honest, I think I'm going to like my job. I like the looks of the people around the store; the boss looks good to me and I've been out of a job so long I'm actually itching for a spell of hard work, so long as it isn't too sweaty. The Fall season is here and there's lots of new hats, new furnishing goods, shoes, kids' togs and the swellest suits with the Sincerity label on the collar of each coat coming in now. Only 40 minutes for lunch, too. I guess I'll earn my five per all right. Watch my spiel and get wise. Willie with

ANCIENT BOWS.

That of the Scythians Was In the Form of the Letter C.

While universally used by the ancients, the form of the bow varied with different nations. The Scythian bow was in the form of the letter C, and the bow of the Tartars, descendants of the Scythians, still keeps that shape.

The Greek bow was not more than three or four feet in length, but so stout and stiff that it required considerable strength and skill to use it. It is said that the first Greek bows were made from the horns of a species of goat, the bases being united by means of a metallic band. Afterward other material was used in their manufacture, but they still retained their original shape. These bows were too short to be of much use, and, comparatively speaking, but a small portion of the troops were armed with them.

The Romans carried the bow to Britain, where it at once obtained favor and during the middle ages was extensively used, forming an important element of the armies of that period.

The English archers were said to be the finest in the world, and their skill decided the battles of Creecy, Poitiers and Agincourt. The bows used were of two kinds—the long bow and the arbalest, or crossbow. The arbalest was made of steel or horn and was of such strength and stiffness that it was necessary to use some mechanical appliance to bend it and adjust the string. The arbalestiers carried a quiver with fifty arrows and were placed in the van of the battle.

FELLOW SUFFERERS.

Each Had Throat Trouble Just Like the Other.

As the commuter who always boarded the train at Paradise Hills seated himself he was conscious that the young man next him looked at him with some curiosity as they exchanged good mornings. For the first few minutes neither one spoke; then the young man broke the ice. "You have a delicate throat, I see," he said commiseratingly. "I used to be bothered that way myself."

The commuter hesitated. There was something about his seat mate which invited confidence.

"Have you been married long?" he asked, with apparent irrelevance.

"Not so very," admitted the young man. "Why?"

"We've been married less than a year," he muttered, "and she gave me six for my birthday."

"I thought so," he said. "It's only a year since I had my attack of throat trouble."—Youth's Companion.

Blowing the Nose.

Medical experts are calling the attention of the public to the importance of performing the nose blowing operation in a scientific and hygienic manner. First one nostril and then the other should be blown without undue violence. Doctors state that the two nasal passages should never be closed at the same time. If they are obstructed, as in the case of a cold, the back of the throat is filled with compressed air, and this, together with the discharge and the microbes which it contains, may be driven through the eustachial tube into the middle ear and lead to serious results. A great authority on the subject used to forbid his patients to blow their noses when suffering from a cold. The course is hardly one which will commend itself to those in the habit of catching colds. The best advice would seem to be that when it is necessary to blow the nose blowing should be done gently.—London Mail.

Wanted His Money's Worth.

"Have you any choice as to the wedding march?" asked the church organist.

"The wedding march?" echoed the father of the bride.

"Yes; the march that is played when the bridal procession moves down the aisle. Which one would you prefer—Mendelssohn's or the march from 'Lohengrin?'"

"Any difference in the expense?"

"Oh, no!"

"Then play the one that's the longest."

Silk Manufacture.

From all accounts silk manufacture originated in China. Chinese tradition has it that the Emperor Foh Li taught his people the art of cultivating the silkworm as early as 5000 B. C. Spain was the first European country to receive the silkworms, the Arab conquerors introducing them about the tenth century, probably from their home on the borders of Persia. The foundation of the silk industry in France dates from the year 1516, when Francis I. imported silk workers from Milan.

The Baby's Fault.

Nursemaid—I'm going to leave, mum. Mistress—Why, what's the matter? Don't you like the baby? Nursemaid—Yes'm, but he is that afraid of a policeman that I can't get near one.—London Tatler.

His Absentmindedness.

Professor (after dinner, looking at his empty plate in a rage)—There, we've had spinach and egg again! You know perfectly well, Amelia, that I can't eat it!—Fliegende Blatter.

Sure Thing.

"Do you believe any of the plant or arboreal kingdom would stick to man if given the choice?"

"I think the dogwood."—Baltimore American.

A Certain Cure for Croup—Used for 10 Years Without Failure.

Mr. W. C. Bott, a Star City, Ind., hardware merchant, is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. His children have also been subject to croup, and he has used this remedy for the past ten years, and though they much feared the croup, his wife and he always felt safe upon retiring when a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy was in the house. His oldest child was subject to severe attacks of croup, but this remedy never failed to effect a speedy cure. He has recommended it to friends and neighbors and all who have used it say that it is unequaled for croup and whooping cough. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

A Quick and Safe Remedy for Bowel Complaints.

Twenty years ago Mr. Geo. W. Brock discovered that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was a quick and safe cure for bowel complaints. "During all of these years," he says, "I have used it and recommended it many times and the results have never yet disappointed me." Mr. Brock is publisher of the Aberdeen, Md., Enterprise. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

How to Cure a Cold.

The question of how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all more or less interested, for the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years and says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by L. S. Simmons.

Daily Examiner and Index-Tribune $9 a year for both papers.

Quinsey, Sprains and Swellings Cured.

"In November, 1901, I caught cold and had the quinsy. My throat was swollen so I could hardly breathe. I applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me relief in a short time. In two days I was all right," says Mrs. L. Cousins, Otterburn, Mich. Chamberlain's Pain Balm is a liniment and is especially valuable for sprains and swellings. For sale by L. S. Simmons.

The Chase Home Place.

The Chase home place has been sold to Mr. W. B. Austin of Stockton, California, and he has commenced the subdivision of this beautiful tract into resident lots. It is Mr. Austin's intention to make this subdivision the and he will make every effort to interest parties wishing to build homes. Avenues will be graded through the tract, cement sidewalks will be laid on both sides of the principal avenue, ornamental trees will be planted, and substantial bridges will be constructed over the creek running through the tract.

The Chase home place has been noted for its beautiful trees, which are one of the desirable features in the selection of a resident lot. There will be no farmyards or chicken ranches in this subdivision. Every effort will be made to have the improvements desirable.

Mr. Austin has decided to give five lots free of cost for the purpose of constructing desirable residences, and he will make all reasonable inducements as to prices and terms to any party wishing to build a home in this tract.

That this is a rare opportunity to secure a home site there can be no question, and any one contemplating building will do well to investigate Mr. Austin's offer at once, as it is reasonably certain that this offer will not last long.

Prices of lots in this tract range from $200.00 to $350.00 according to location. Terms can be arranged to suit the purchaser, and the property can be purchased from any real estate agent in Sonoma, or through Mr. Austin's authorized agent, George E Crane, care of B. F. Campbell, Sonoma, California.
